

Wanderers' double bid

WYCOMBE Wanderers will be aiming for their fifth double of the season tomorrow (Saturday) when they entertain Barking at Loakes Park in the Rothmans Isthmian League.

The full importance of this game will not be known until after last night's (Thursday) meeting with Slough, but win or lose, the Blues must still pile on the points in case the other title contenders slip in their remaining matches.

Wycombe may have John Maskell back in goal after a fortnight's lay-off with a back injury while Steve Hill is likely to be substitute.

Wanderers have the advantage of a 2-0 away win over Barking in February, but the Essex club have been proving difficult to beat recently, drawing home and away with Staines Town. Two goals from Ian Pearson sealed the Blues' win at Mayesbrook Park but the match was marred by the injury to Howard Kennedy who tore knee ligaments which have kept him out of action for the rest of the season.
